Dear Potential Client:

As your Private Investigative Agency, we are only able to provide you with the evidence you desire if you tell us the truth regardless of how unpleasant, insignificant or irrelevant it may appear. Anything less has consistently proven through years of experience to have a dramatic and potentially detrimental affect on our ability to acquire the pertinent information you need. Additionally, we are not interested in duplicating efforts at your personal and financial expense.

"I cannot make things exist that do not. I cannot locate infidelity where it does not exist and sometimes, despite signs to the contrary, there is no infidelity or it is quite simply too infrequent or too well concealed to be found" (Advanced Surveillance Group, 2008).

Accordingly, we do not guarantee any outcome; however, will pursue every investigative lead diligently. Generally, we tend to decline a multitude of clients at this stage of the initial consultation, as we will not commit to a promise we cannot deliver. Another level of deception is not what you are in the market for and certainly not the product we assemble and disseminate.

Finally, Daughtry Investigative Services, LLC® will work in full compliance and within the maximum limitations of the law in an effort to ensure all of the evidence acquired is legally admissible in a court of law. It is imperative that we possess a shared understanding of your specific goals and desired outcome in the course of an investigation.

My staff and I anxiously anticipate serving on your behalf and best interest in a maximum capacity as your Georgia State licensed and Insured Private Investigative Agency.

Thank you and God Bless,

"Reading books and watching movies about Private Investigators naturally requires some suspension of disbelief. Much of the time, they make decisions that would land a real investigator in jail and out of a job."
